

Mason, Mitchell take primaries

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

The Waveland mayoral and aldermen candidates were tired, hungry and had sunburned faces from standing in the bright sunlight doing last minute politicking outside the polls, but when the votes were counted and announced, there were quite a few broad grins. The rest quietly disappeared.

Republican mayoral candidate John Mason will face Democrat Keith Mitchell and Independent Jack Toomey in the general election on Dec. 6. Mitchell said he "Thanked God and all the good people of Waveland who backed him," for the success he achieved in Tuesday night's primary. He said it was time to "hit the bricks" again to campaign for the job of mayor.

Mason had a similar pursuit on his mind. "Now, the real work begins," he said. The businessman who would be mayor said he remained "tense" until he realized he had gathered more votes than Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman to win the Republican nomination.

In Ward 1, John Thomas Longo, Democrat, will go up against Republican Richard R. Fitch and Independent candidate

Taylor, Lott big winners

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

Congressman Gene Taylor and Senator Trent Lott were big winners in the Tuesday general election.

Taylor beat out challenger George Barlos with Taylor receiving 68,416 votes and Barlos receiving 44,484 votes.

Taylor was one of the few Democrats to retain office as Republicans have taken over a majority in the House and the Senate following this election.

Locally, a special election was also held for Hancock County School Board seats.

The votes were relatively close in the election and a ruling is expected today as to when the new board will go into office.

Hancock County School Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois said that she has been in contact with Assistant Attorney General Phil Carter and a ruling will be made today as to when the new members will take office.

Kiln to receive new post office

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Good news was received by Hancock County Board of Supervisor President Michael Ladner this week in a memo from United States Senator Trent Lott.

A new postal facility is to be built at Kiln, Miss. Ladner became involved with Kiln post office problems back in 1976.

At the time he was a Hancock County employee and had received a telephone call from the now retired Kiln Postmaster Ray Favre.

In 1976 Postmaster Favre received a telephone call from Atlanta saying that when he retired that year, the post office would be closed permanently.

Ladner then contacted United States Congressman Trent Lott, who informed him that he would look into the matter.

With the help of Congressman Lott, the Kiln Post office continued to operate at its present location.

The better news today is, Lott's latest memo to Ladner reports that due to the growth of the Kiln area a new post office facility is to be constructed.

Lott had received a notice from U.S. Postal Service District Manager Darrell Hood that the decision was made on May 31, 1994 to construct a new facility at Kiln.

In October, Postal Facilities Office real estate specialists visited the Kiln area to review prospective sites for the facility.

Ladner said that proposals will be received sometime around the first of the year for land, and this will be followed by bidding for the construction of a new postal facility.

Supervisors hear complaints from Stennis firefighters

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

Stennis airport firemen aired their reasons for a recent walk-out at the Hancock County Board of Supervisors meeting Monday.

The Stennis International Airport firemen, who walked off the job Wednesday evening, cited to the board their complaints of hazardous working conditions and employee cutbacks.

The board said that they wanted to hear both sides of the story and asked that the two spokespersons for the group attend a meeting between the supervisors and the Hancock Port and Harbor Commission on Thursday.

At the meeting Monday, Kiln

Volunteer Fire Department Battalion Chief Tim Cameron and firefighter Peggy Axtell were speakers for the group.

The two cited problems that lead to the walkout, which occurred 13 minutes before a plane load of casino visitors was expected to arrive at the airport.

Cameron and Axtell said that they are forced to work with condemned equipment which puts their lives in jeopardy, had to spend their own money and time for the purchase and upkeep of supplies and equipment, and were forced to work without protection from the elements during cold and rainy weather.

"Mr. Stovall mandated that we use the condemned equipment which put the people in risk of losing their lives and the supervisors at liability of a lawsuit," Cameron said.

"There are two sides to every story," Board President Mike Ladner told them and then asked Cameron and Axtell to represent the firemen Thursday.

Cameron and Axtell asked the supervisors to do what they could to save the jobs of the firemen.

Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate said that arrangements have been made with other fire departments in the event of an emergency at the airport.

New buses

Officials with the Coast Transit Authority and Hancock Supervisors Mike Ladner and Howard Lizana cut the ceremonial ribbon to introduce the CTA's new all-white fleet of special route buses. Senior citizens, handicapped and others will now be able to enjoy the services of these buses, equipped with wheelchair lifts and other conveniences. The Hancock County Board of Supervisors helped fund the service. Arrangements for the bus rides, aside from the usual routes, can be made by calling Rosine Joshaway at 467-9292. Joining in the ribbon cutting were Ted Hearn, CTA's executive director, Bob Neal, assistant executive director and Commissioner Bob Travers. Drivers are Eunice Dearing and Ed MoSat. Representatives of the Senior Citizens Center were Laura Mederos and Pam Isabelle and representing Bay St. Louis was Kay Johnson, city clerk. (Echo staff photo by Charlee Marshall)

Cedar Point Casino developers at work

BY MARY G. SEILEY
After re-evaluating the economics of further casino development in Mississippi, backers of casino at Cedar Point plan to forge ahead with their project. Conceptual drawings of such a facility should be ready for public viewing in three to four months, said Bob Jones, director of site development for the Minnesota-based Gaming Corporation of America. "We have every intention to move forward with that project," Jones said.

A proliferation of casino development in Mississippi over the past year has lessened the take of most casinos, and left some in financial straights.

The proposed casino's backers are studying whether to float their barge in the Bay of St. Louis, or to push to locate it in what's known as "Serpentine Lake," an inland, watery section of property now under option for casino development.

Jones said talks with city, state and federal officials will determine which avenue the project's developers pursue.

The developers, he said, monitored public hearings that were held last summer on the city's comprehensive development plan. Those hearings featured an outcry public opposition to an additional casino in the Cedar Point area.

Jones said the developers are aware of that opposition and plan an extensive effort to work with the community as the casino plan evolves.

Local acceptance of a casino's locale, he said, is "a big point with us. The last thing we want to do is to upset the local citizens. We are not the kind of company to force-feed a project on the community."

He said developers plan to meet with Bay St. Louis city officials, and to hold public forums on their plans, while pursuing state and federal permits on the project.

Plans call for using Engman Avenue as the accessway for the casino, Jones said.

Fire dispatch system has a new telephone number

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER
Area residents will have a new number to call to report a wild fire or if they need a burn permit.

The Mississippi State Forestry Commission has released the number which can be used starting on Nov. 14.

The number is 1-800-240-5161 and will ring at the central dispatch office in Wiggins.

The state is going to a central dispatch system for the receiving of emergency calls and for the dispatch of fire crews and airplanes.

"The planes will help us to determine the exact location, what type of fire that it is and if any homes and property are in danger," Hancock County Forester Mark Jamieson said.

The four planes, equipped with special equipment capable of giving exact coordinates of the fire, will be dispatched from Wiggins to the fire location.

District Forester Michael Hendrey said the new program will save the commission money and put more workers in the crew.

"The planes won't be flying constantly. We have over 50 years of records to enable us to determine when the fire danger days are. We will fly at 9 a.m. and again at noon to evaluate the situation and then when we feel it is necessary again and if we are dispatched," Hendrey said.

By taking the dispatcher out of the tower the fire crews will be completely manned.

Jamieson said that when they are at the tower workers will answer the phone and when they are not an answering machine will pick up and give the central dispatch number.

The use of the fire towers will be phased out completely in approximately two years," Hendrey said.

"Our main objective is the safety and well being of the public. That is why we are slowly phasing this out and trying to get the public used to the idea of calling the central dispatch and not the tower," Hendrey said.

Citizens are urged by Hendrey and Jamieson to write the number down and keep it with other emergency numbers for quick reference.

Highway 603 project going 'smoothly'

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Highway officials still project a spring 1995 completion date for the Highway 603 project.

Resident engineer Steve Twedt said Tuesday motorists should see some paving beginning soon along the new four-lane route. The project extends from Stennis International Airport to the intersection of Highway 90.

Sometime before Christmas, traffic will be shifted to the western side of the highway, at the south end of the project, said Twedt.

That movement will accommodate culvert construction that must be completed before the paving begins, he said.

Although the project has been hit by a number of delays, Twedt said construction has been running "pretty smoothly" in recent weeks.

Bridge open to marine traffic

The Highway 90 bridge reopened to marine traffic Monday at 2 p.m.

The drawspan was closed for four weeks, while workers replaced the mechanisms that raise and lower it.

Highway officials said the repairs were crucial, after 40 years of operations.

A technical problem delayed plans to reopen the span to marine traffic at midnight Nov. 5.

Barbara Rappold for the alderman seat.

The runoff on Nov. 22 will pit incumbent Robert G. "Bob" Hubbard, against Aline B. Keating for the Ward 2 alderman post. The winner will face Republican Jay Fleuriot in December.

Louie Smolensky got the Ward 3 nomination and will vie for the position along with Republican Ralph L. West Jr. and Independent Clarence Harris.

A runoff between Al Kingston Jr. and Richard C. Bessey will determine who wins the Ward 4 alderman seat.

Poll workers saw a steady flow of voters at the Waveland Library. The turnout was considered to be very good but several of the candidates said there was some confusion about the directions posted inside.

The polls closed at 7 p.m. and the candidates, their families, supporters and a large group of interested people waited until the boxes were counted. Congratulatory handshakes and hugs were in store for the winners.

Affidavit ballots were counted Wednesday at City Hall.

Unofficial counts are listed in the boxes for the primary election on Page 11A.

CUEVAS QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A play on words. No, not really. Randy Guenard, Hancock County Board of Supervisors secretary, received a telephone call this week that the fire marshal should not have a county vehicle with a Stop Abortion bumper sticker.

Guenard promptly called Fire Marshal Richard Pate's office, who said he was almost floored when he returned to the office and heard the complaint about his county vehicle's bumper sticker.

He and Civil Defense secretary Lynette Carbon immediately went to check his pickup, and the only bumper sticker they could see was one that said Stop Arson.

Pate feels the caller probably got abortion and arson mixed up.

Tomorrow is Veterans Day for Americans.

It is a time to remember all those who have served our county in the military.

Many gave their lives, others carried scars to their grave, while still others suffer the 'hells' of wars.

No one can give more than their life for their country.

Military is important, they may even be compared to a firefighter or police officer, because even during the time of peace, one never knows when they may be asked to put their life on the line.

In order for citizens to show their support of our veterans, a big Veterans Day parade is scheduled for Waveland tomorrow at 10 a.m.

The parade is sponsored by a Hancock County veterans and auxiliary organizations. High school bands, military units and marching groups will parade the streets of Waveland.

Veterans will be there. Will you be there, too, to show your appreciation?

United States Congressman Gene Taylor is to give the keynote address after the parade.

I hope to see you tomorrow at the Veterans Day parade and ceremonies.

A Salute To America's Veterans

We Salute Our Fallen Heroes

On Veterans Day
November 11th, 1994

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Veterans Day

For many years, I have had the privilege of addressing Mississippi's veterans on the day that honors them. Once again, I have searched to find words that are adequate to convey our nation's thanks.

It should be a simple task, but no matter how hard I try — or how many times that I say it — neither the quality or the quantity of my words will ever suffice. How do you thank someone for doing what our nation's veterans have done? For over 217 years, our nation has tried to answer that question.

The citizens of this country have expressed their gratitude with home loans through the VA, education through the G.I. Bill, and veterans hiring preferences and health care at the veterans hospitals. This year Americans will spend $38 billion in an attempt to thank our veterans for their contributions to freedom.

But, like the words that I search for every year, it is simply not enough. Our nation cannot give veterans back their youth. We cannot compensate them for the dangers they found. We cannot erase their suffering, their sorrows or the loss of their friends and loved ones. And we cannot give them back their time.

On a small piece of paper, taped to the window behind my desk, is a quote that reads, "The greatest gift that a father can give his son is the gift of his time — for material things mean nothing if there is no one there to share them with."

Far too many of those who served our country gave their lives even more have given their sight, their hearing, their arms and their legs. Many more carry the invisible scars of war — scars that can be seen and felt only by those souls that have seen the horror of war. But all of our veterans have given still more.

The most precious gift we have taken from our veterans, their parents, their children, and their spouses, is their time. Time, that precious treasure that we mortals can measure only in terms of what has been used, but never in what remains to be used.

It is the uncertainty of the amount in our accounts that makes our time the most precious commodity that we own and that we can give to others.

And it is our veterans' gift of time that makes our words of gratitude seem so inadequate.

The only way that we can ever thank our veterans is to forge a nation that is worthy of their gift. To do this we must honor our veterans by building a nation that lives within its means and which honors its veterans, senior citizens and all human life.

To honor our veterans with a nation where everyone is given the opportunity to make the most of their abilities, and is not afraid to say "In God We Trust" is the least we can do.

Drivers need to learn how to use turn signals

To the Editor:

Mississippi drivers, are you in for a shock. Car makers all over the world have invented the most remarkable device, a turn signal.

It's a lever on the left side of the steering wheel. If you pull up on it it signals a right turn, down a left turn.

Now if you can't spot it right away, keep looking, it may have wiper or cruise control on it.

Don't worry, police won't pull you over if you decide to use it. No, it won't kill your battery, radio or flatten your tires, but it could save a life.

Next, I'd like to tell you of seat belts.

Texas parents commend Waveland, County officers

Dear Editor:

Although this is very late, it is none the less sincere. Last June our 17-year-old daughter, having been persuaded by her friend, ran away from home.

Our local police department did absolutely nothing to assist us in trying to locate her. Their hands were tied.

Upon hearing they were headed in the direction of Waveland, we contacted the local police department. My first contact was with Gracie Peterson. Ms. Peterson was concerned, caring and immediately attempted to assist us.

She allowed us to contact her for information periodically without making us feel as though we were interrupting her.

My husband and a friend drove to your area and were assisted by officers Leo Ladner and Jody Peperman.

These officers took time to assist my husband in trying to locate the girls and the people they were there to visit. Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson lent a helping hand in the search.

He made time to take my husband to contact various people and search the area very late at night.

We owe a debt of gratitude to those persons listed above. They took the time and had the patience to deal with two very distraught people. Your area is extremely fortunate to have public servants such as these.

Our local police department almost arrested my husband when he appealed for assistance from them. He was extremely upset, and one female officer even accused him of being disrespectful to her and pulled his license to run a check on him.

Our daughter did eventually return after three days, and we wanted to express our appreciation and gratitude to Ms. Peterson, Officers Ladner and Peperman and Sheriff Peterson.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts for your concern and assistance.

Sincerely,
David and Nettie Webb

Killed by a drunk driver on Good Friday, March 21, 1991, at college Park Drive and Hwy 90, near Meridian, Miss.

If you don't stop your friend from driving drunk, who will? Do whatever you can.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.

Fly Your Flag Regularly - and Correctly

If flags of two or more nations are flown, use flags of equal size and flagstuffs of equal heights. International usage forbids display of one nation's flag above another in time of peace.

When displayed with another flag against a wall with crossed staffs, the U.S. flag is on the flag's own right and its staff in front of the staff of the other flag.

The U.S. flag should be at the center and at the highest point when a number of flags of states or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs.

When flown with other flags on the same halyard, the U.S. flag is always at the peak. When others are flown on adjacent staffs, the U.S. flag is hoisted first; lowered last.

In a procession with other flags, the U.S. flag is either on the marching right (flag's own right) or if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line. Never display the flag from a float except on a staff or suspended with folds falling free.

When displayed from a projecting staff, the union of the flag should be at the peak of the staff, unless at half staff. When suspended from a rope extending from a building to a pole, the flag should be hoisted out from the building union first.

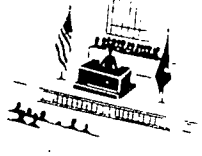

If the flag is displayed other than from a staff, it should be suspended flat with folds falling free. When displayed over a street, the union should face north or east, depending on direction of street.

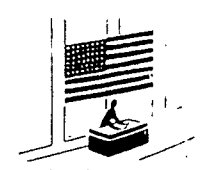

The U.S. flag should be a distinctive part of an unveiling ceremony of a statue or monument, but should never be used as a covering.

In the chancel of a church or on a speaker's platform, the flag is placed to the speaker's right; other flags to the left.

If displayed vertically or horizontally flat against the wall on a speaker's platform, the flag should be placed above and behind the speaker with the union in the upper left hand corner as the audience faces the flag. It may also be suspended with its folds falling free as though the flag were staffed.

When covering a casket, the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag is not lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. When flown at half-staff, the flag is hoisted to the peak first, then lowered to half-staff position. It is raised to the peak before being lowered.

During hoisting and lowering ceremonies or when the flag passes in parade, all persons should face the flag, stand at attention and salute. A man should remove his hat and hold it with his right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag in a moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes.

Most recently, two-time winner of the International Bach Competition for Pianists, Fr. Sean Duggan, was the featured guest, and plans for the December 13 program include performances by the University of Southern Mississippi Guitar Orchestra and the Consortium Renaissance period music, instruments and costumes.

St. Paul's also will host the the Dec. 2 performance of the Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah at 7 p.m. in conjunction with the community's Christmas in the Pass celebration.

Plans for the 1995 spring concert season call for performances by the Long Beach Concert Choir, the Bay Area Chorale and a debut of original compositions by pianist/composer Jim Ballard, featuring Ballard and soprano Judith D'Angelo.

All concerts at St. Paul's are free and open to the public.

D'DHEAD MARINES

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Williams hosted a Marine Corps 219th anniversary ball at their home on Laie Street last Saturday evening.

The ball was dedicated to the memory of Lloyd Phillips (E-2-5) and Ed Kelly (1-3-1) Guadalcanal, Cape Gloucester and Pelilieu. Traditional Marine fare consisting of SOS, baked beans and bologna and cheese sandwiches were served.

Colonel John Wyatt, USMC retired senior officer, cut the birthday cake which was decorated with the Marine emblem.

Guests shared lots of memories as they watched John Payne and Randolph Scott in the 1941 movie, "To the Shores of Tripoli." This was such a nice gathering, honoring a very special branch of military service, its retired officers and personnel in Diamondhead.

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

Thanksgiving is on the way, so the school will be closed Nov. 23-25 so students and faculty can enjoy this holiday with their families.

Please note, if you're looking for a special holiday gift, the Diamondhead Academy cookbook is just the thing. They are on sale at the academy office for $15.95.

PDQ INC.

Preserve Diamondhead's Quality, and that's what the meeting was all about at the community center Nov. 7. The group, made up of many residents of Diamondhead, has as its main objective the environmental impact on the wetlands of the Bay of St. Louis.

They stress they are not anti-casino, but are concerned of their locations and the cumulative effects upon the area. The group has been chartered as non-profit, with a main committee of Paul Seckso, Brierley Acker, Carolyn and Sam Sapio, Molly Yeske, Mary Bates and Betty and Joe Winkler.

They welcome new members who are concerned about these issues and how they will affect residents of Diamondhead and the other areas around the Bay.

Single membership is $10 a year, couples $20.

Please mail your applications to P. O. Box 6244, Diamondhead 39525.

Nonnie De Bardeleben, with Concerned Citizens to Protect Pass Christian Isles and Henderson Point, was the featured speaker at the meeting and gave a most informative presentation. Mrs. De Bardeleben and her group have been successful so far, and she has really done her homework.

SPECIAL AWARD

At the Diamondhead Community Association dinner meeting Friday, Nov. 4 not one, but two outstanding citizen of Diamondhead awards were given.

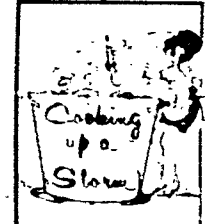

Congratulations go out to Robert and Margaret Pflugfelder for their hard work and dedication benefiting the Salvation Army.

Lend them a hand on their projects for Christmas. Please call Bob at 255-1243.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

If your family is small or scattered to the far corners of the land, or if you're going to someone else's home for the upcoming Thanksgiving celebration, you'll not be cooking a big turkey, but you can still have an elegant turkey-day special by cooking another sort of feast.

One housewife of my acquaintance cooks two smaller turkeys, thus ensuring plenty of white meat, which she prefers, and uses up the leftovers in various dishes, creamed dishes or otherwise. Still others choose Cornish game hens, capon or goose, or if they're fortunate enough to have victorious hunters around, wild duck or other game. If not, you may want to do your shopping at the super-markets and choose duckling.

The famed French "Canard Aux Cerises" or Roast Duckling with Cherries, is quite tasty, for example. Cherries or apple cider or mandarin go well with duckling. I prefer the cherries, and at times cook chicken this way:

ROAST DUCKLING WITH CHERRIES

1 duckling, 4 to 5 lbs. average
1 can (large) pitted black cherries (reserve juice)
1/2 cup dry red wine (I prefer burgundy)
2 Tblsp. flour
1/4 cup water
Pepper, salt, lemon juice to your taste)

Sprinkle the duckling, inside and out quite liberally with salt and pepper (the latter preferably fresh-ground or coarse). Roast, on a rack in your roasting pan, in a hot 450-degree oven for 15 or 20 minutes.

Remove from the oven, pour off the fat which has dripped from it and return to the oven, reducing the temperature to 325 degrees.

Continue roasting for approximately 2 hours, making sure to pour off the fat again after 20 minutes or so, and basting from time to time with the syrup from the cherries.

When the duckling is almost ready, simmer the cherries in the wine for a few minutes. Place the duckling on a warm serving platter, while you add the "winey" cherries to whatever drippings are left in the roasting pan. Mix the flour and water together and add to the mixture of cherries and drippings, and cook until a bit thick. Serve with the duckling.

And, the next time you see "Canard Aux Cerises" on a fancy French menu, remember that it's just duckling and cherries, and enjoy!

Help a smoker quit

Know someone who wants to quit smoking? Encourage your friend or loved one to join the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout coming up Nov. 17. Then make plans to support your friend or loved one on that day.

"Quitters need a lot of support from the people around them," says Phyllis Moran, executive director. "That's why the American Cancer Society tries to make the day as light-hearted and as much fun as possible."

Moran says that preaching and scolding are counterproductive, so don't take that approach. Instead, Moran says to offer constant reassurance and incentives.

"You want to be a calming influence," says Moran. "Continually offer praise and encouragement."

The American Cancer Society offers these tips for helping someone to quit smoking on Great American Smokeout Day:

* Make an extra effort to keep close contact by phone or in person.

* Help your quitter tell jokes and give your friend cartoons. Watch a funny video or go to a comedy club.

* Agree to give up something that you dearly love, such as chocolate, coffee, or soap operas (and no recording with the VCR).

* Provide your friend with a survival kit of carrot and celery sticks, sugarless gum and candy, pencils and straws to hold or chew.

* If you're an ex-smoker, share your quitting experiences rather than lecture on the dangers of smoking. What worked for you may work for your quitter.

* Send flowers or balloons during the day or on the day after to celebrate.

* At the end of the day, offer congratulations. Then tell your quitter that in just six more days his or her body can be cleansed of nicotine, and he or she could be on the way to complete freedom from tobacco.

"Always remember," says Moran, "never nag, threaten or criticize, especially if your quitter slips and smokes."

For information on the Great American Smokeout, call your local American Cancer Society at 601 896-7024 or call toll-free 1-800-227-2345.

The cast includes Martin Bouda as Martin Klemmer, Lora Harris as Aretha Thomas, Carol Terrell as Sylvia Glenn, Christine Johnson as Leatrice Monsee and Vincent Welsh as Boom Boom Johnson. Jack Schornick is the policeman.

Technical Director is Kathleen Fischer; stage manager is Wayne Hahn; assistant managers are Woody and V. Fisher and sound and lighting will be done by Brierly Acker.

Local Elks to host conference

The Bay-Waveland Area Elks Lodge 2776 will host the Mississippi State Elks Association Mid-Winter Conference Dec. 1-4 at the Days Inn at Diamondhead.

At that time, Grand Exalted Ruler Kenneth L. Moore of Corona, Calif. will be visiting. Moore is the highest ranking officer in the benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, a fraternity of more than 1.3 million Americans whose charitable and patriotic works have received wide acclaim for nearly 125 years of the organization's existence. He will be accompanied by his wife, Rosemary. They will celebrate their 46th wedding anniversary while here.

"The local lodge, having been in existence for only 27 months, is very pleased to host the state convention, which includes all lodges within the state and is honored to have our national leader in attendance as well as past Grand Exalted Ruler Robert Grafton and wife Pat," said Gene Woodrick, spokesman.

The state ladies auxiliary will be meeting at the same time. Highlight of the conference, after work is concluded, will be the banquet on Saturday night, and Sunday morning there will be a memorial service to honor deceased brothers who passed away during the year.

Moore was born at Clark, S.D., finished public schools at Huron, S.D., after which he served in the Air Force, marrying Rosemary Hurdle in 1948. He attended Oregon Polytechnic Institute, resided in Boise, Idaho for a short period of time before permanently settling at Corona in 1961.

In 1965 he founded Lancer Mobile Homes Inc. and later the Western Community Bank, where he served as chairman of the board.

He was inducted into Elksdom in 1956. Since that time he has served in practically every capacity at his home lodge as well as state and national levels.

He has been active in community functions and was selected Corona's Citizen of the Year in 1991. He and his wife have two daughters and a son and are grandparents of ten.

During Moore's acceptance speech in Chicago this past July he issued his motto for the year,

"Meeting the Challenge." He pointed out that "our society has changed considerably over the past several decades, and although change is not always readily acceptable, we must be prepared to meet the challenge."

"He will be asking each of us to extend a 'helping hand' in meeting the challenge for the betterment of our country, our order and our fellow man," Woodrick concluded.

Galleries observe Second Saturday

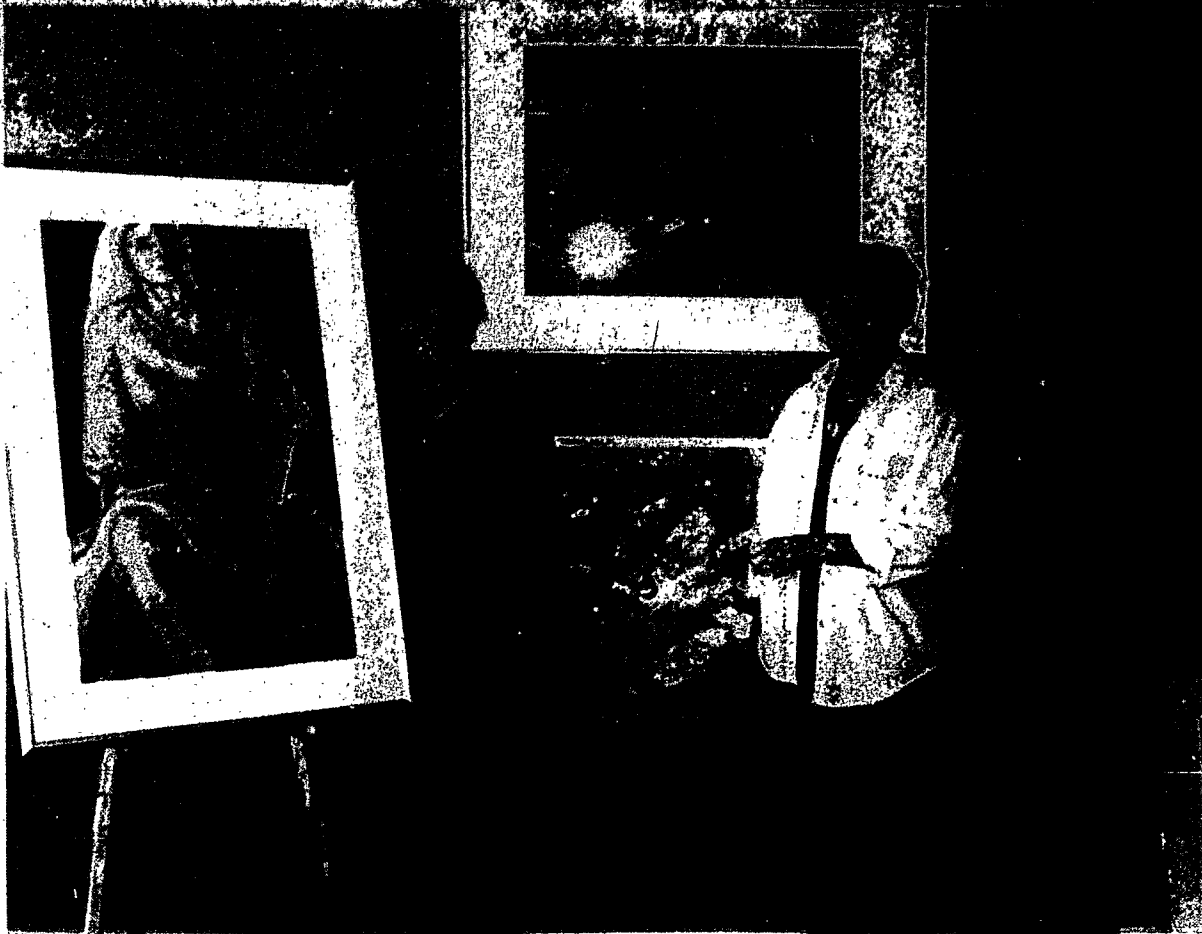

"Second Saturday," Bay St. Louis' monthly coordinated gallery openings, will take place Nov. 12 from 8-8 p.m. in the Old Town section of the city. Most galleries are including seasonal holiday themes and gift items in addition to their regular staples of artists.

Serenity Gallery will feature the Mississippi Art Colony's traveling fall show. Members of the oldest existing art colony in the United States meet twice a year in Utica to paint and share ideas. The show, which includes many Gulf Coast artists, "is probably the strongest the colony has ever exhibited," says Patt Odom, artist and instructor.

The Jackson County campus of the Gulf Coast Community College hosted a recent exhibit of the Mississippi Colony fall traveling show. Winning top awards in competition were Susie Ranager of Ocean Springs, first place; Patt Odom of Ocean Springs, second place; Saradel Berry, third place; Alex Loeb of Meridian and Barbara Lougue, Litcher, La., honorable mentions and Patricia Pille, Destrehan, La. the Dick Blick Award.

Others participating included Kathleen Banton, New Orleans; Evelyn Brelan, Onett; Christine Cozic, Kenner, La.; Kat Fitzpatrick, Bay St. Louis; Lucy Gaines, Pascagoula; Millie Howell, Philadelphia; Karen Jacobs, Destrehan; George Ann McCullough, Madison; Rita Meadows, Ocean Springs; Byron Myrick, Petal; Jim Perry, Starkville; Lallah Perry, Meridian; Clo Ann Rabb, Meridian; Brenda Randolph, Long Beach; Dolores Ratcliffe; Norma Seward, Ocean Springs; Gertrude Smith, Collins; Opal Smith, Pascagoula; Jamie Tate, Freeport, Texas; Mary Ellen Tucker, New Sarpy, La. and Martha Virden, Leland.

M. Schon-Erickson has mounted a selection of African art, while Ray Kutos' Antiquarian features a collection of late 19th and early 20th century Italian glass.

The Village Emporium celebrates a birthday and grand opening at the gallery's new location, 212 Main Street, and exhibits paintings by Leola Landor.

Nadic Arts shows paintings of Gulf Coast naturalist Nadine

Stamm, as well as a display of gilding and restoration techniques by master gilder Dick Stamm.

YCart Gallery will feature the works of renowned sculptor, potter and two dimensional artist Ed O'Halloran. He has been an instructor for the gifted art program in Louisiana and several colleges in and around the New Orleans area. The focus for current contributions of O'Halloran marry the art of pottery with embellishments of silver, stone, leather, feathers, metals and found objects to individual works.

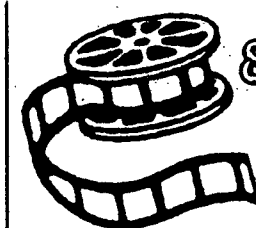

Other participating galleries are S. Anne Lynch's Cat Rock Corner and Vicki Lever's Paper Moon.

Many galleries offer refreshments and the opportunity to meet the featured artists.

Americans turn to doctors for non-medical help

When faced with an incurable illness, such as Alzheimer's disease, Americans want non-medical help from their doctors, but don't always expect to get it, according to a new study by the Alzheimer's Association.

Seventy-two percent of 1,210 American adults responding to the Gallup survey said it was very important to them to receive a referral from a doctor for non-medical assistance and support if they, or someone they cared about, were diagnosed with an incurable disease and medical options were exhausted.

During November, National Alzheimer's Disease Month, local chapters of the Association, will be reaching out to doctor's offices across the country to offer assistance to physicians in meeting the non-medical needs of patients and families.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter will provide information about support services to physicians' offices for distribution to patients.

"People with Alzheimer's disease can't yet benefit extensively from the traditional medical model. People are turning to physicians for information and referral, and the Association wants to help physicians to give families the kind of information they most want," said Donna De Weese, chapter executive director.

"Typically, family members call our office wanting to know about support groups, respite services and information about the disease and how to care for patients. We encourage physicians to have family members contact us for support at the time the diagnosis is made." The Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter serves 3,500 families coping with the disease in the area with support groups, caregiver's training, newsletters and advocacy programs.

A program on Alzheimer's disease entitled "Just for the Summer" will also be made available to secondary schools as part of the chapter's activities during the month of November.

"Would You Like Paper

Or Plastic?"

Take your pick. Regular checks. Or the reusable check. Or both. We call our reusable check the Sunny Check Card.

The Sunny Check Card is not a credit card. But it is easy to use. Just present the Sunny Check Card anywhere VISA® is accepted, sign the receipt, then the purchase amount comes directly out of your checking account. No IDs.

No check approvals. No problem. You can even use the Sunny Check Card in cash machines.

No, you won't stop using regular checks. But if you're looking for an easier way to do your checking, try our little reusable check. It's just another example of Sunburst Bank working hard to make banking better for all of our customers.

Pass sailor responds to Gulf threat

When Iraq's president Saddam Hussein recently moved approximately 80,000 of his elite Republican Guard troops to within a few miles of Iraq's southern border with Kuwait, the United States responded with a tremendous show of force.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class John H. Weeks, the 21-year-old son of Samuel and Susan Weeks of Pass Christian, is aboard the USS Tripoli, an amphibious assault ship, and was part of that force positioned off the coast of Kuwait within 24 hours of the threat.

Weeks is a hospital corpsman assigned to the Marines. The Tripoli, which carries Sailors and Marines, is one of four ships that comprise an amphibious ready group (ARG).

The ARG includes 2,000 Marines from the 15th Marine Expeditionary Unit and is capable of launching a powerful amphibious Marine assault, day or night, under any weather conditions. The other amphibious ships joining the Tripoli are USS Cleveland, a transport dock ship, and the USS Rushmore and USS Fort McHenry, both landing dock ships.

John H. Weeks

"We were the first of the forces that were readily available and could be mobilized to arrive in this theater," said Captain Robert F. Willard, Tripoli's commanding officer.

"I think we can all be very proud of the fact that we were called in to deal with this crisis."

Also joining the ARG in the Arabian Gulf area to deter the Iraqi aggression were other American warships. These included the aircraft carrier USS George Washington with its 80 tactical aircraft onboard and accompanying battle group ships.

During the heightened operation, Weeks and his 1,300 fellow shipmates were visited by the Secretary of Defense, William R. Perry, who praised the Sailors and Marines for their efforts.

Other members of the reliability engineering group are Frank Amato, Mike Andrews, Mary Byrd, Gary Calvert, Anthony Gelsomino, Allen Jordan, Miriam LaNasa, Charlene Martin-Dauphin, Garry Munchinski, Jim Scogin and Robert Taylor.

"The military power you represent has saved the United States and the world from war," said Perry. "I came here to thank you. You should be very proud of what you've done and I can tell you as your Secretary of Defense, I'm proud of you, the President's proud and the American people are thankful."

Tripoli, homeported in San Diego, left last June for its final deployment before being decommissioned. Prior to participating in the Iraqi crisis, the ship supported the United States humanitarian relief effort in Rwanda, Operation Support Hope.

COMMUNITY

THE SEA COAST ECHO - THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1994-1B

Serving His School And Community

Chris Ruddell, a sixth grade student of Gulfview Elementary, coordinated a campaign to purchase five Braille computer keyboard packages for the schools in Hancock County. Chris is the son of Dian and Eric Ross of the Diamondhead Community. As a member of the Boy Scout Troop #20, he was asked to complete a community service project. For Chris, the choice of a project was an easy one. He read an article about Braille labels that adhere to standard computer keyboards in a Popular Science magazine and thought how great it would be to have at least one set of Braille labels at each school in Hancock County.

Chris explained, "My interest in people who are visually impaired began when I wrote a research paper on Louis Braille, a French musician and inventor. He lost his sight at a young age and later invented a system of writing and printing for the blind using raised dots to represent letters and numbers.

I spoke to the Diamondhead Rotary Club about sponsoring the project. The Rotary club said if I could raise the money to buy one set, they would buy the rest. So, I did extra yard work and chores around the house for my parents and I put folders together for my mom's friend at Century 21 of Diamondhead until I had raised the $25.00."

After donating a set of Braille labels to Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Gulfview Elementary, Waveland Elementary, and Hancock High School, Chris has one set left to donate to any school that has a need.

Chris said, "These five sets of Braille labels were purchased for public school use. I would like to further develop this project by purchasing Braille labels for the public library."

Dean tapped Sigma Tau Delta

During recent tap day ceremonies at Millsaps College, Susan Michelle Dean of Pearlington was tapped in Sigma Tau Delta, a national English honor society whose purpose is to grant distinction to students for high achievement in the English language and literature.

Dean, a senior English major, is the daughter of H. G. Dean of Pearlington and Sue S. Dean of Wiggins. She is a member of Sigma Lambda, Alpha Psi Omega, Eta Sigma Phi, Phi Eta Sigma and secretary of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Hut

Fourth grade students work on adobe hut.

Target

Ed Reed shows 8th grader Clint Adams his target in a recent session on primitive cultures.

Bay Jr. High students 'experience' history

Seventh and eighth grade students at the Bay Jr. High School really get involved with their studies of history. Teacher Ed Reed, for example, recently completed a unit of study on the early American Indians. Instead of merely reading about the first Americans, Reed's students were led on an exciting adventure, which thrust them into the role of "being" an Indian.

Students learned how to construct spears, bows and arrows and teepees. They went deer hunting in the forest (a cluster of trees on campus) and actually shot their home-made weapons at deer targets. Fires were built to simulate cooking techniques.

Students came away with a better understanding and appreciation for the Indians.

Their next social studies unit was on early settlers of the American West. Reed and his students were last seen building an adobe hut. Such hands-on experiences lead to greater interest and more in-depth understanding of the complex issues.

HONOR ROLLS

Among students listed on Gulfview Elementary honor rolls for the first nine weeks are first grader Adam Sullivan, A's and B's; fourth grader Rachelle Garcia, A's and B's; and fifth grader Billy Wiley, A's and B's.

PRCC claws Wolves 35-17

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Pearl River Community College football team defeated the Copiah-Lincoln Wolves last week by the score of 35-17.

The win improved PRCC's record to 5-4 overall.

Co-Lin scored with 6:11 to go in the first quarter when Owen Saffle kicked a 27 yard field goal.

On PRCC's first play from scrimmage, QB Jerel Posey hit a streaking Kahri Walker for a 74 yard TD strike. Jimmy Williams, of Bay St. Louis and SSC, kicked the PAT making the score 7-3.

Co-Lin wasted no time in getting the lead back. A 13 yard TD run by Greg Buchanan put the Wolves up 10-7.

Co-Lin added another score with 6 yard TD run by Josh Sanders. Co-Lin now lead 17-7 but that was all the Wolves would score.

On PRCC's next possession, Jermaine Roberts scored on a 1 yard run to narrow the lead to 17-14.

Early in the third quarter, Posey ran 35 yards for a TD and Williams kicked the PAT to put the Wildcats up for good.

Brent Sones returned a Co-Lin fumble 17 yards for a defensive TD by the Wildcats giving PRCC a 28-17 lead.

PRCC's final score came on a 20 yard run by Jerel Posey. Williams added the PAT and the game ended 35-17 in favor of PRCC.

Fourth place - Bonnie Rolfs
Fifth place - Marion Boudreaux and Alberta Alley

Hawkins disappointed; but a proven winner

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Charles Hawkins, of Bay St. Louis, recently competed in the National Championships for Bodybuilding held in Orlando on October 21-22. Hawkins didn't make the final cut; however, he made the cut with most people's opinions.

Hawkins is an all-natural bodybuilder. He does not use artificial means to build muscle. He simply eats and works out.

Hawkins stated, "I was competing against guys who pumped up bigtime on steroids. These guys have only been training for about 4 years and I've been at this for 14 years now. These guys are looking for short time glory and I'm looking to do this when I'm 65 years old."

Hawkins reported in at 5'9" and 174 pounds. He said that some guys were reporting in at 5'5" and 180 pounds. He even said that some judges were telling him what to take to make it as a pro.

Hawkins has decided to enter only natural contests. The first one he will enter is the Mr. Natural World contest being held in July 1995.

I asked Charles one question, "Did you get to eat your pizza?"

He responded, "I ate that and then some. I weighed 174 on Friday and on Monday I weighed 210 pounds. I ate everything in sight. I ate about every two hours. I have finally went back to normal at 205 pounds. I begin to train for July's contest in January."

Charles claimed he was in the best shape of his life when he went to the contest. He said that it was very unfair what happened. In my book, Charles, you went down there a winner and you came back an even better one. Good luck with the natural contests!!

South Central Bell awards teacher grants

Suzette Burton, Hancock High School; Jane Murphy, Hancock North Central Elementary; and Nancy Stravinsky, Hancock Junior High, were recently presented Teacher Grants from South Central Bell. Grants were presented by Tim Ryan, assistant manager, on behalf of South Central Bell.

The Teacher Grant program was designed to help provide teachers with a way of implementing innovative teaching ideas in their classrooms. Teachers in public schools served by South Central Bell were eligible for the program.

The grants had a maximum funding of $500 and were evaluated by a panel of educational professionals. The panel looked mainly for innovative ideas that could be realistically implemented in classrooms. About 420 applications were submitted statewide, and 53 received funding.

"South Central Bell is committed to helping improve education at many levels," said Ryan. "We hope that by helping fund an innovative project, an enriching experience for teachers and students will take place."

Suzette Burton received a $500 grant which will fund a project using art in the biology classroom. The project will develop a series of enrichment units on Walter Anderson, a Gulf Coast artist and legend, to use in comparative anatomy.

The rationale for this project is that by developing a link between art and biology, the non-traditional science student will develop both creativity and in interest in science.

Jane Murphy received a $475 grant which will fund a project entitled "Crawling to Success." This project will allow this school to purchase two crawl trainers to be used for their students who are handicapped. The trainers will provide aid to the students in learning to crawl when body support is required.

Nancy Stravinsky received a $500 grant which will fund a project that allows students to apply knowledge of physical principles that are utilized in the arts.

Students will incorporate the humanities and science through the use and manipulation of pottery.

The objectives of the project are to develop an understanding of physical principles involved in the science of art, to supplement the physics and physical science curriculum with application of academic theories associated with the arts.

USM program reaccredited

By M. E. Williams

An international accrediting organization renewed its seal of approval for the University of Southern Mississippi's Interior Design Program this fall.

USM Associate Professor Joan Traylor, coordinator for the Interior Design Program, got word in August that the Foundation for Interior Design Education Research (FIDER) re-accredited USM's program for another three-year period which expires in August 1997.

USM's program was the first college-level interior design program accredited in Mississippi, Traylor said, noting initial FIDER accreditation was granted in 1990.

FIDER is the only organization that accredits interior design programs in colleges and universities in the United States and Canada.

"Gaining re-accreditation was an ongoing, three-year process in which USM interior design faculty revised the interior design curriculum and course content to meet the standards and guidelines established by FIDER," Traylor said.

The faculty also "compiled data for the self-study Program Evaluation Report and prepared for the site visit."

Accreditation, in addition to being a rigorous examination and endorsement of a school's program conduct and content, also gives graduating interior design students an extra edge in entering the work force, said Noell Tennyson.

"If you graduate from an accredited program, I think it says to the employer that you are coming into the field with more," said Tennyson, a 21-year-old interior design major from Ocean Springs.

"We have practicums; we do an internship—we have a lot of hands-on experience when we leave here that others may not have."

FIDER accreditation is viewed by professional interior designers as "critically important to graduates entering the design profession," Traylor said. Licensing laws in 16 states and Washington D.C. give the right to use the title "interior designer" to an individual based on fulfillment of certain criteria, including education, she said.

FIDER cited USM's one-semester internship program, which allows interior design students to take what they learn in lecture and studio courses and gain practical experience in the field, as a "strong component of the interior design curriculum," said Dr. Gale Dickerson, associate professor and coordinator of the interior design internship course, noting USM students have done internships with noted interior designers nationwide.

Interior design courses are also part of the curriculum for some study-abroad programs sponsored by USM, giving students an additional chance to broaden their perspective, Traylor said.
